Opening General Session: Navigating Economic Uncertainty

Location: 2nd Floor, Seaport Ballroom A

Roger Ferguson is an economist, corporate executive, and highly regarded expert on financial issues. As President and CEO of TIAA, he led the company and its 17,000 employees through the challenges of the pandemic and social unrest. Previously vice chairman of the Federal Reserve for nearly 10 years, Ferguson steered the country's economy through the massive financial aftershock of September 11. He provides his insight on the economy and leading in uncertain times, identifying three crises we have seen — health, social justice, and economic — and how they intertwine. He also shares his vision on the importance of infrastructure, education, fintech, a greener economy, and diversity, equity and inclusion. The session begins with opening remarks from MBA's 2023 Chairman Matt Rocco, and CEO Bob Broeksmit, who provide updates on the state of the industry and the association's work, as well as the presentation of the DEI Leadership Awards.

Breakout Session: Affordable & Rental Housing Solving Affordable Multifamily Housing Supply Challenge

Location: 2nd Floor, Harbor Ballroom A

There is a persistent affordable rental housing shortage in the U.S., with the problem getting worse as rents rise faster than incomes in many places throughout the country. Low-income households and communities of color feel the ongoing housing challenges most demonstrably. Rising rents, strong demand, and a limited supply of affordable housing has led to high shares of cost-burdened renters across the country. Hear from industry practitioners who are working to address the supply challenges through policies, programs, and practices.

Location: 2nd Floor, Harbor Ballroom B

In 2021, lenders closed almost $900 billion of mortgages backed by income-producing commercial and multifamily properties – adding to what is now almost $4.4 trillion in outstanding loans. Despite its size, however, one often hears laments that the commercial real estate finance (CREF) market is “behind” or “lagging” when it comes to adopting technology, particularly when compared to its cousin, the single-family mortgage market. This session explores what drives Commercial Real Estate Finance Technology (CREFtech) and where and how it is most effectively deployed.
